Małe Licho

Border for moss stitch shawl by Sabina Raczyńska from Forest of Needles

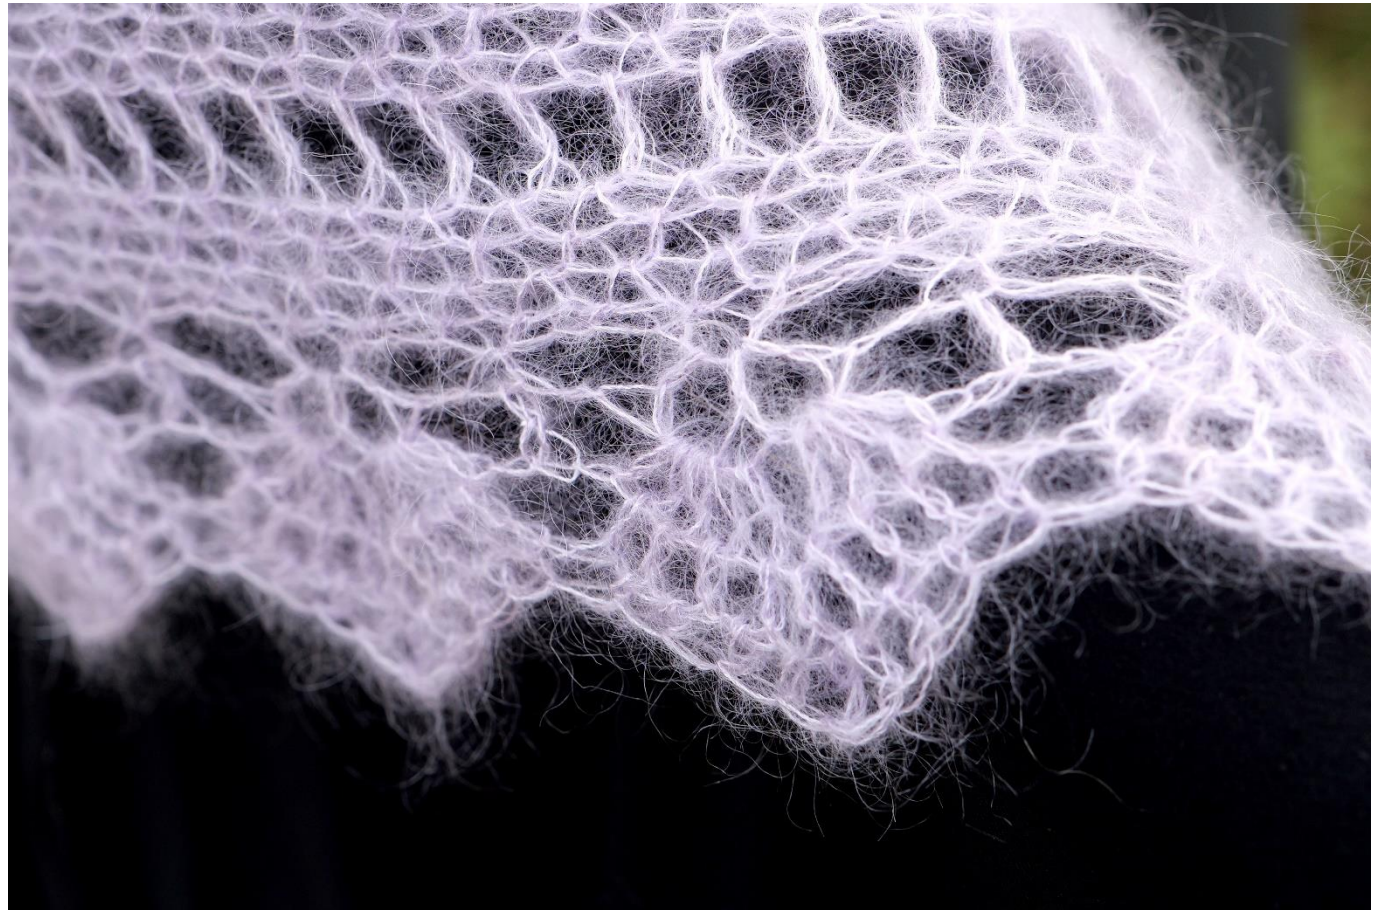

First of all – thank you very much for your interest in the Małe Licho pattern! I'm so happy that you decided to download this pattern and I really hope that it's not our last crochet meeting!

Because preparing the pattern took me some time, I will be very happy if you will tag my Facebook or Instagram, when you will publish photos of a ready shawl:

If you have any questions, please contact me via my fanpage Forest of Needles.

Have fun!

Shawl on the photo: Drops Kid-Silk 55, ca. 4 skeins (~ 750 m)

Measurements: 190 cm x 85 cm (crocheted loosely and with the whole shawl blocked)

Crochet hook: 5 mm

Author: Sabina Raczyńska, Forest of Needles

Materials:

- 1500–2000 m of of ombre/mono yarn (3 or 4 threads, ca. 500 m / 100 g) or
- 800–1000 m of mohair yarn
- Crochet hook: 3,5–4 mm (ombre yarn) or 5–8 mm (mohair), depending on how you crochet

Comments:

- Make the moss stitch shawl using any method you like. You can add the border after rows in which the number of single crochet stitches on one half of the shawl (if you make two single crochet stitches on the edge, count them as one) is divisible by 5.
- You can crochet the border with a hook about half a size smaller than the one you use for the moss stitch shawl.
- Rows marked in black represent the right side of the shawl, and green represents the left.
- After each row we turn the work.
- Rows marked in gray belong to the previous parts of the pattern.
- You can block the finished shawl – preferably flat, stretching only the decorative border (if you make the shawl from the mohair yarn, you can block the whole piece).
- The finished shawl with the border can be sold in max 10 copies per year, with name of the pattern and designer clearly stated.

Used stitches (US terms)

- chain stitch

- single crochet

- half double crochet

- double crochet

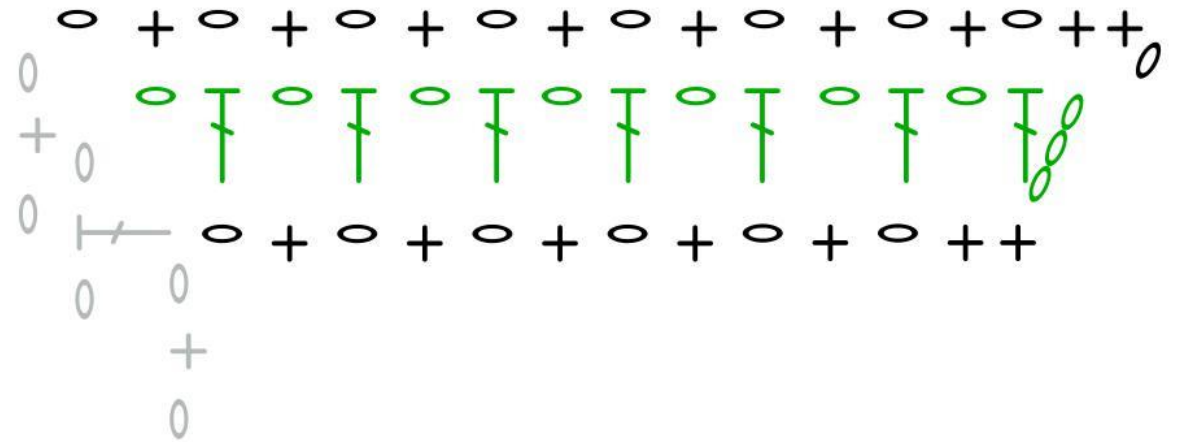

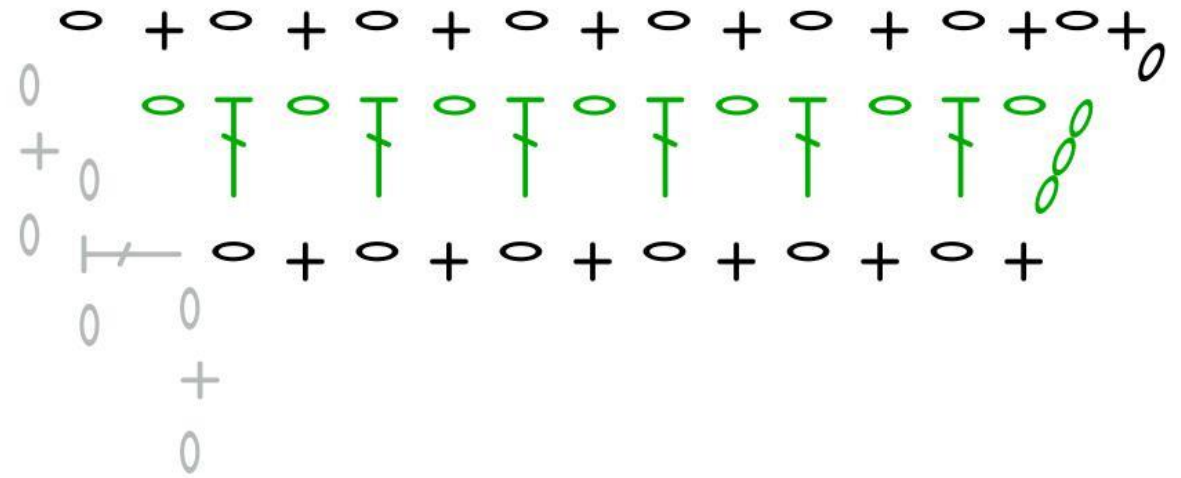

- 3 dc in the same stitch, separated with chain stitches

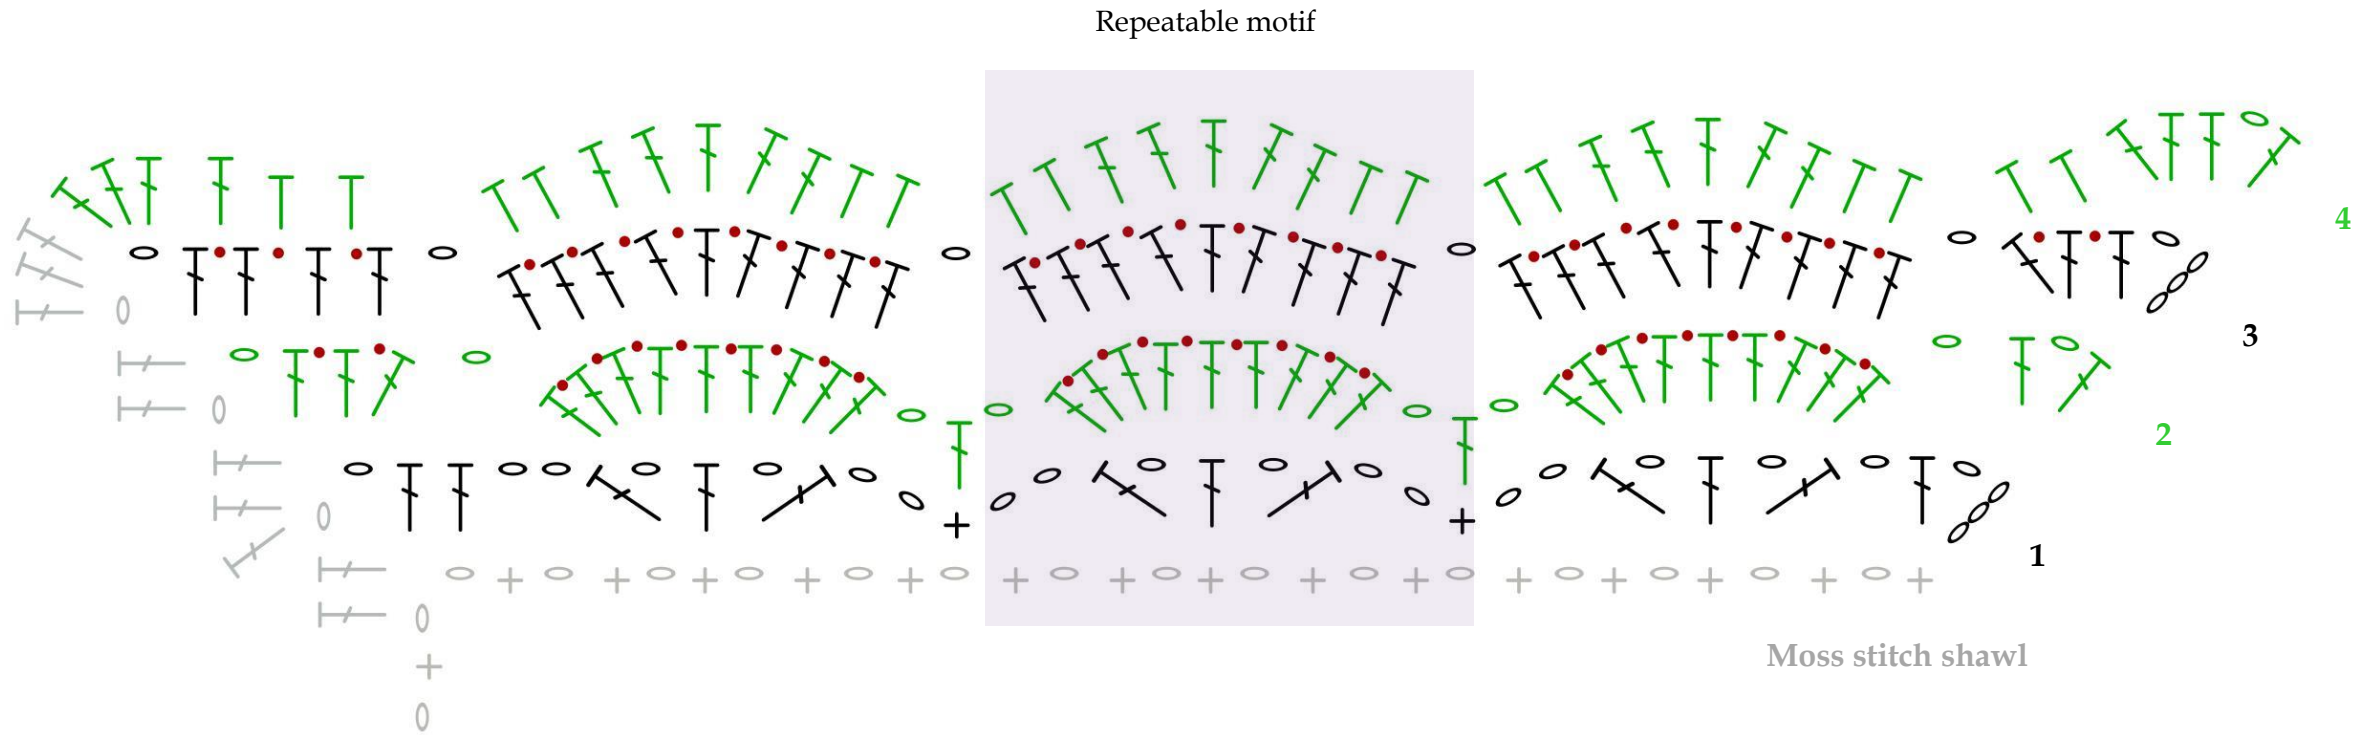

Openwork grid

The diagrams show how to make an openwork grid on one half of the shawl (for the moss with one single crochet on the edge or two single crochet stitches on the edge). You can make the openwork grid after any row, for example, two rows before the border.

Border version A

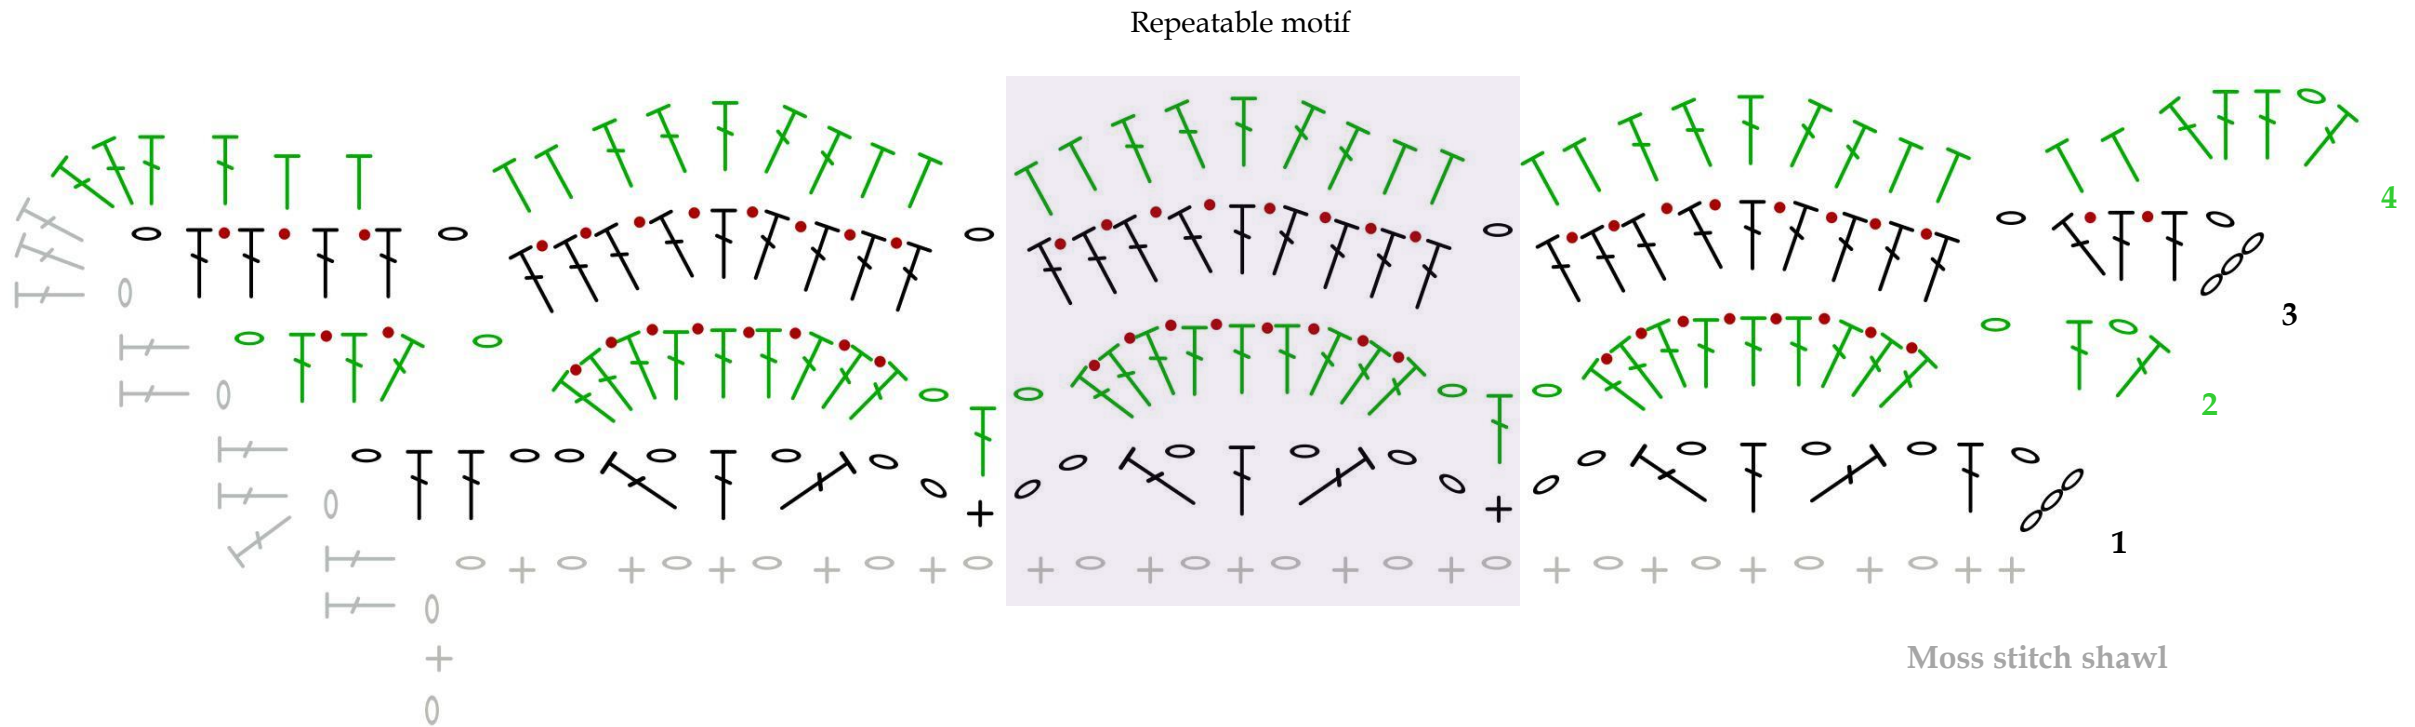

The number of single crochet stitches in the row before the border should be divisible by 5.

Row 2 – make 4 dc under the chain stitch.

Rows 3 and 4 – the red dot marks the places where we make the double crochet and half double crochet stitches (between the double crochet stitches from the previous row). The double crochet stitches in the middle of the fan motifs are made into the double crochet stitches from the previous row.

Border version B

The number of single crochet stitches in the row before the border should be divisible by 5 + 1 additional single crochet stitch; you can count two edge single crochet stitches as one stitch and skip adding + 1 in counting.

Row 2 – make 4 dc under the chain stitch.

Rows 3 and 4 – the red dot marks the places where we make the double crochet and half double crochet stitches (between the double crochet stitches from the previous row). The double crochet stitches in the middle of the fan motifs are made into the double crochet stitches from the previous row.
